Requirements), you acknowledge that the Company will be required to and has the right to restructure your remuneration package by providing you with an alternative remuneration package which the Company considers consistent with such Regulatory Requirements and business needs of the Company. Any such change to your compensation shall be at discretion of the Company and as communicated in writing from time to time.

5.5. During the period of your employment, the Company shall reimburse you for all reasonable and necessary business expenses (as determined by the Company) in accordance with the policies of the Company, as in effect or amended from time to time.

5.6. The Company may deduct from your Salary or any sum paid, an amount of income tax, social security contribution and / or any other sum which the Company may be required to deduct as per the applicable laws. Except for the taxes and contributions mandated by law to be withheld by the Company or for the government filings required by law to be made by the Company in connection with the Salary and other compensation and benefits arising from this employment, all other taxes and contributions and filings will be your responsibility and will be made by you.

5.7. You will be required to participate in the Employees' Provident Fund maintained by the Company in accordance with the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 ("EPF Act"). Your eligibility and contribution (both by the Company and you) to the Provident Fund will be in accordance with the EPF Act and the schemes framed thereunder.

5.8. You will be entitled to gratuity in accordance with the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972.

5.9. You acknowledge that in case of any breach of the terms and conditions of employment, to the extent permitted under applicable law, the Company shall have the right to forfeit any payments due to you hereunder.

6. PROBATION

You will be on probation for an initial period of 3 months from the Effective Date ("Probationary Period"). During the Probationary Period, your performance and suitability for continued employment will be monitored. At the end of the Probationary Period, you will be informed in writing if you have successfully completed probation. After the successful completion of your probation period, your employment with the Company will be confirmed permanently. In case of unsuccessful completion of probation or if the Company finds you unsuitable for the role, your employment will not be confirmed. The Probationary Period may be extended, on more than one occasion, for such period as the Company considers appropriate, at the sole discretion of the Company. During probation this Agreement can be terminated by either party by giving one month notice or salary in lieu thereof.

7. TERMINATION OF SERVICE

7.1. Termination without cause: The Company and you mutually accept the possibility that at some future point, the Company or you may wish to end this employment relationship. Your employment shall be subject to termination by either party giving to the other two months' prior notice in writing or payment in lieu thereof. In case you decide to leave without serving the required notice period, the Company reserves the right to set off or adjust the amount corresponding to the unserved portion of your notice period from your full and final settlement dues. Any period of notice given by you shall commence once accepted by the Company in writing. The Company shall
